Are you enthusiastic about life sciences and chemistry? On your way to becoming a European patent attorney or already qualified as a patent attorney? We should get in touch!

BARDEHLE PAGENBERG is one of the leading intellectual property law firms in Europe, with offices in Germany, Spain, and France. We support our clients in the procurement of IP rights and represent them in litigation across all fields of intellectual property law. Our team of passionate patent attorneys and attorneys-at-law provide high quality legal and technical advice to our clients in multiple areas, including patent law, trademark law, and design law.

For our office in Barcelona<sup>1</sup>, we are currently looking for a highly motivated

European patent attorney (qualification fulfilled or ongoing)

Closely cooperating with our partner in charge of life science and chemistry, you will draft and prosecute patent applications in the fields of chemistry, pharmaceuticals, and life sciences and work on EPO oppositions and appeals.

<sup>1</sup>Physical location in Madrid is also a possibility.

Your profile:

- You hold a degree in chemistry, biochemistry, pharmacy, or a related discipline;
- You are a partially or fully qualified European patent attorney – any national qualification is a plus;
- You have practical experience in drafting and prosecuting patent applications before the European Patent Office (EPO) – practical experience in the pharmaceutical field is a plus;
- You have excellent oral and written command of the English language – knowledge of Spanish and another EPO language is a plus;
- You have excellent analytical skills to quickly analyze technical and legal facts in detail and compellingly present the results orally and in writing;
- You have a sense of responsibility and take ownership of your advice and recommendations.

Your perspective:

- Join the fascinating daily business of assisting great clients in obtaining and defending IP rights, helping clear the way of potential obstacles;
- Convince us that you are the right candidate to take on a more client-facing role and establish your own client base;
- Advance your career in one of the most renowned IP law firms in Europe and become a driving force in our Barcelona office.
