BARDEHLE PAGENBERG announces three attorneys promoted to partnership

BARDEHLE PAGENBERG is delighted to announce the appointment of three new partners at the Munich and Duesseldorf office.

Johannes Heselberger, Managing Partner, has acknowledged the up-and-coming talent, stating: “We are again welcoming two patent-attorneys and an attorney-at-law from the Patent Litigation Group into the partnership. Together, we will be pooling our professional experience and commitment in the interests of our clients in order to fight for their goals.”

Patrick Daum

Dr. (Ph.D.), M.Sc., B.Sc.

German and European
Patent Attorney

Office Duesseldorf

As a patent attorney, Patrick Daum is involved in patent prosecution as well as opposition proceedings to attack and defend patents in the areas of wireless communications (mobile communications), electrical engineering, aerospace technologies and mechanics. A further aspect of his work focusses on the enforcement of patents in litigation and nullity proceedings before German courts. Furthermore, Patrick Daum regularly prepares infringement and validity assessments for clients.

He brings to the table an extensive technical know-how and research experience acquired at various academic institutions and applies this knowledge in the prosecution and enforcement proceedings in the respective areas of technology.

Michael Kobler

Dr. iur.

Attorney-at-Law

Büro München

Michael Kobler's main areas of practice involve advising German and international clients on patent litigation, drafting license agreements and other IP-related agreements, advising clients on matters relating to employee invention law and unfair competition law. He cooperates with the firm's patent attorneys in proceedings relating to cross-border actions, enforcement of patents, design rights, copyrights and claims concerning unfair competition, including protection of business secrets. In this context, he also prepares opinions on possible infringement.

Michael Kobler's technical areas particularly include Internet services, telecommunications, IT and software, sporting goods, medical devices and chemistry.

A further area of Michael Kobler's practice relates to the legal aspects of repairing and maintaining patented products.

Benjamin Ruckert

Dr. rer. nat., Dipl.-Phys.

German and European
Patent Attorney

Office München

As a German patent attorney and a professional representative before the European Patent Office, Dr. Ruckert represents German and international clients in the patent grant procedure before the German Patent and Trademark Office and the European Patent Office. His main technical fields include telecommunications and communication engineering (e.g. mobile radio standards, such as GSM, LTE, LTE-A and 5G). His other technical areas include mechanics (e.g. sports equipment and medical devices) and physics (e.g. superconductors).

Dr. Ruckert also frequently drafts expert opinions on the legal validity and infringement of patents and utility models. Another area of his practice involves conducting opposition, appeal and nullity proceedings as well as participating in patents and utility models infringement proceedings that frequently involve cross-border disputes. Dr. Ruckert handles mandates from individual inventors, SMEs and international corporations.
