BARDEHLE PAGENBERG appoints new equity partner

BARDEHLE PAGENBERG is delighted to announce that Dr. Jan Bösing has been appointed equity partner at the Munich office.

Johannes Heselberger, Managing Partner: “I am extraordinarily happy about the fact that, in Dr. Bösing, we have won an equity partner from our own ranks; this consistently continues the growth of our Patent Litigation Group and demonstrates that outstanding personalities can thrive in our firm relatively quickly. The excellent quality of Jan Bösing’s legal advice is just as convincing as his team spirit and entrepreneurial abilities.”

Dr. Jan Bösing about his professional ambitions: “I really look forward to the challenges and the opportunity of helping to considerably shape the development of the Patent Litigation Group of BARDEHLE PAGENBERG in the coming years. The upcoming start of the UPC and the establishment of our Hamburg office have great potential for our team, and I look forward to contributing my share to the successful realization of our market strategy.”

A particular focus of his work related to patent law is on standard-essential patents (SEPs). He advises clients on and represents clients in the enforcement of SEPs on the one hand and the defense of compulsory license under antitrust law (FRAND defense) against the assertion of SEPs on the other hand.

Dr. Jan Bösing also advises his clients on IP transfer and license agreements as well as research and development projects in all technical fields. Additionally, he has vast experience in IP-related corporate transactions and restructuring, having been in charge of a plurality of IP due diligences.
